SPECIAL NOTICES.

The importance of the bealthiness of the nervous system cannot be overestimated; its power over life and death and the direct bearing which it has on human happiness seems to be recognized; its capabilities, its qualities and its powers; the importance of its healthful preservation, its moderate uses, the danger of overtaxing it, whether through thought, study, or intense application in mental investigation and research; whether by the alsorbing attention necessary to the conduct of complicated and momentous business interests, or by the excessive indulgence of the appetites and propensities of the system. All these are proper subjects for consideration, as also the knowledge of what is moderation, what is excess, and when these oxist the absolute necessity of promptly seeking advice from an expert who, for a long series of years, has devoted his whole time and attention to the study, investigation and treatment of all the matadies of this important department, to accurately determine the diseased conditions, their nature, causes and origin, whether arising from the want of exercise, its tregularity or excess, and who, from his experience and practice, has learned to the remedy, thus avoiding the painfully also feeling after the truth, so common to the inexperienced and so anneying to the partient, who, very maturally, wants to know without delay what is the matter, the extent of the derangement, the probabilities of recuperation and the time required.

A striking example of the value of experience and practical observation, as well as the usefulness of the prompt application of snitable remedies, is found in the important examination, of those who suffer from mental disturbance and absolute insanity permanently recover, who are placed under treatment, chaning not from one, but a dozen public institutions, not only at home but abroad, that a very large propertion of snitable remedies, is found in the important examination of the sew of certain and different within a year after the first symptoms have manifested
